

The United States Court of International Trade at Foley Square, Manhattan reports the death of its Senior Judge R. Kenton Musgrave at the age of 95 in his state of both birth and retirement, Florida.

Admission to the Bar in Georgia and then California led him to positions with great American business enterprises, e.g., Lockheed Aircraft and Lockheed International (assistant general counsel), Mattel, Inc. (vice president and general counsel), Pacific Enterprises (assistant general counsel), Vivitar Corporation (vice president, general counsel and secretary), and Santa Barbara Applied Research Corp. (vice president and director).

Kenton's adventuresome and athletic nature took him far beyond those corporate offices. As a world explorer, trained as an aircraft pilot, alpine skier and ocean sailor, he maintained lifetime commitment to protection and preservation of the Earth's environment and animal lives of all kinds therein via organizations such as the Morris Animal Foundation (trustee), Pet Protection Society (director emeritus), Dolphins of Shark Bay (Australia) Foundation (director), The Dian Fossey Gorilla Fund (trustee), The Ocean Conservancy (trustee), and Westminster Kennel Club (co-producer). Indeed, his personal friendship with the ill-fated Miss Fossey led to production of the widely-acclaimed motion picture Gorillas In The Mist, by which time he had been a director of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows.

President Reagan appointed him to the Court in 1987. He is survived by his daughter Dr. Ruth Musgrave Warren in Olympia, Washington, and her two children.
